TransLink® For Transit-Oriented Development Frequently Asked Questions

What is the TransLink for Transit-Oriented Development (TOD) program?

The TransLink for TOD program was established to provide free personalized TransLink cards with six months' worth of unlimited travel on all AC Transit local and transbay lines for residents of select TODs. The program, which launched in June 2008, is a joint effort of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission and AC Transit. MTC is using the program to study whether residents of such housing developments are more inclined to use transit if they are provided with free transit for an introductory period.

How does the TransLink for TOD program work?

If you live at one of the participating TODs, you are eligible to receive a free adult TransLink card loaded with an AC Transit 31-day transbay pass. Your card will be set up to automatically renew the 31-day passes for six months. That means you can ride all AC Transit lines free for six months, including to San Francisco.

Is my TransLink for TOD card different from regular TransLink cards?

Every TransLink for TOD card is a regular adult TransLink card that has been registered with the TransLink Service Bureau and that has the cardholder's photo on it. The pass is valid only for you, is not transferable, and will be revoked if used by someone else. You should be prepared to show the card to AC Transit personnel for inspection if requested.

Can I use the card on a transit service other than AC Transit?

TransLink can be used on all AC Transit and Dumbarton Express buses and all Golden Gate Transit and Ferry routes. With the TransLink for TOD program, you can ride AC Transit as many times as you want for free. If you want to use your card on Dumbarton Express or Golden Gate Transit and Ferry, you need to add e-cash. The maximum amount of e-cash you can keep on your card is $300. Muni, Caltrain and BART are scheduled to begin accepting TransLink for payment during the six months that the TransLink for TOD Program is in operation; when this happens, you can add transit passes, ticket books and tokens to your TransLink card.

Where do I add value to use my TransLink card on other transit services?

You can add value online, by calling the Customer Service Center, or by visiting a self-serve Add Value Machine, a participating store or a transit agency ticket office. You can also set up Autoload to add value automatically whenever your e-cash balance drops below $10 or your transit pass expires.

What if my card is lost, stolen or damaged?

Call the TransLink Customer Service Center at 877-878-8883 (TDD/TTY 711 or 800-735-2929) to report a lost, stolen or damaged card. You will be charged a $5 fee for card replacement (normally, customers must pay a $5 fee for balance restoration also, but that fee is waived for TransLink for TOD participants). Because your card was distributed through this special program, please don't report it card lost, stolen or damaged online.

Do I have to turn in my card at the end of the program?

No, the card is yours to keep, but the free passes will stop being loaded on your card at the end of six months. You will have to add value to the card in order to keep using it.

Normally I would get a senior or youth discount—does this card work with discounts, either while I'm getting free AC Transit rides or after the six months of free AC Transit service are over?

Your TransLink for TOD card entitles you to free travel on all AC Transit lines for the six-month program, but because it is an adult card, any fares you pay on other transit services will be adult fares. If you are eligible for youth or senior discounts, call the Customer Service Center at 877-878-8883 (TDD/TTY 711 or 800-735-2929) to discuss the best way to take advantage of these discounts.
